Discussion

Mattox: Quoted MLK Jr. and spoke about the pain this travesty has caused; putting yourself in others shoes is important in situations like this. There are a lot of lost innocent lives on both sides of this war. We need to remind ourselves that we are all human and all deserve freedom and justice. He is praying for this community. He is grieving for every victim, but is demanding justice for all people. He is asking for our leaders to have a conversation that should have been had long ago.

Larson: She has listened to all of the words spoken tonight and she feels the humanity in this room. We are all welcome here, and the diversity in the room tonight is evidence of that. She whole heartedly supports this legislation.

Russell: Terrorism is the enemy of democracy. Her prayers go out to everybody who has been affected by this tragedy. We can protect the people in our community, and we can love each other here. If anybody ever needs somebody to talk to, please call her.

Boyd: Spoke about her time visiting Israel and what she witnessed was a lot of collaboration between Israelis and Palestinians on many different levels. We must continue to separate what is the terrorist organization that is Hamas and the people of Palestine. We must give each other space to grieve and be kind to one another.

Cuda: Supports this legislation and read a statement regarding the recent attacks. This time has been traumatic for all of us, but especially for our Jewish and Israeli neighbors. He grew up in a neighborhood with many Jewish people, and many had numbers on their arms. Although not Jewish himself, he was enriched by his Jewish neighbors and Jewish culture. For him, it is not enough to say how sorry he is, he wants the community to know why he is sorry and what the community means to him.

Cobb: He recently rewatched Schindler's List and he doesn't know how anybody can watch that movie and then question Israel's right to defend themselves. He does not find anything controversial in this legislation that he believes all of Council will support.

Hart: Council brought this legislation forward because they wanted to support our Jewish residents and neighbors who have been so affected by the attacks by Hamas. Hamas is also hurting innocent Palestinians. We are one community that supports you, and are here for you. We condemn the attacks and defend the right of Israel to defend themselves. She will be voting yes for this.
